Acknowledgement of Country

The writers, editors, and designers of Oxley's Pin Oak begin this edition by acknowledging the Gundungurra people - the Traditional Custodians of the land on which we learn and work - and pay our respects to their Elders past and present. We acknowledge the presence of all the peoples within the Oxley community.

From around town...

Last year, Daphne Hutchison (current Year 7) won the Grand Prize in the 'Bowral' submission, 'Bowral', is now hanging in the David Wright Library.

and long drive to Knox Grammar it was well worth the trip as it was a fantastic opportunity to meet other like-minded young leaders. The day was initiated by Martin Heppell (Partner and Facilitator of the Resilience Project) who addressed us on matters of gratitude, empathy, and mindfulness. His personal experiences and stories of others were an excellent way to captivate the group and created much discussion at times where we were invited to converse with other people in our group (an excellent ice breaker as talking to strangers can be a little daunting at times...).

Following an array of spreads for morning tea, each of the leaders, in their coloured groups, attended 2 well-being workshops led by a group of Knox and Ravenswood students. The workshops were a hands-on method of understanding well-being through notions of

INTRODUCING... THE TREEHOUSE PAPERS

WHAT'S GOING ON?

The Treehouse Papers Issue 1 (2023) has been devised by students in the Year 6 Writers' Studio. Chief Editors, Lisa Mussett and Evelyn Hammond have been leading a team of students, under the guidance and supervision of Miss Candelori.

The team includes Raphaela Abreu, Madi Chamley, Oscar Choo, Pixie Hanson, Maeve Ryan, Sienna Patruno, Ava Stocks and David White. Once per week these 10 students gather for a Writers' Studio lesson and collaborate their ideas for articles to be included in The Treehouse Papers.

This issue, other Year 6 students were given the opportunity to submit a self-written article on any of the categories.
